

ISOS Course

English for (Asian) Academics

Doris Scharinger

Tuesdays, starting 22 January 2013 | 15:00 - 18:30 hrs

The sessions are aimed at learners of the English language especially from Asia who work as graduate students or researchers in the natural sciences.

Content:

- | Grammar e.g. tenses, pronouns, articles, phrasal verbs, word order
- | Pronunciation and intonation

The sessions furthermore include aspects that are characteristic of English for Academic Purposes:

- | Vocabulary – useful in writing academic texts.
- | Genres and structures of academic texts (e.g. research articles, abstracts)
- | Talking academic: The difference between speech and writing, presentation
- | Presenting facts - presenting opinions
- | How to make texts easy to read: organisation, linkers, information structure

Venue: GEOMAR westshore building, small conference room

Please register online at www.futureocean.org/isos